WHOOPI

A Fourth of July celebration for Paso is now an assured fact. We wi celebrate, we will celebrate big, an the only thing necessary in order have the country for three hundre miles around pouring her folks into Paso for a glorious demonstration, she hearty cooperation of everybod everybody, everybody.

Yes, people, let us sink all miserab little jealousies, forget bickerings, la aside politics, bury grudges, bring or our smiling faces, and work for a b day that will never be forgotten. The opportunity is here. Now for the acceptance of it. First, let it ! understood that the men who as working for the success of the celebr tion scheme are purely disinterested and have no axe to grind excep George Washington's. One thousan dollars is wanted. Every single cer of the money will be publicly accoun ed for through the newspapers. Ever man who subscribes will have a vote in the disposition of the money.

What sort of a celebration do w want? Here is the place for ever body to make known his ideas. Th only things so far scheduled are a bi bicycle road race, a mammoth proce sion, and a flag raising in the plaze with hand music, singing, and patrioactivities of all sorts, and noise. We want great animal figures and strange shapes, all sorts of things to draw a crowd, and make the crowd yell, and scream, and cry, and shoot off noise factories in large numbers. We want which the American firm is said to the averagenized body to parade in uniform. And [we want as much else as tell what "we" are going to do with "our" great holiday.

The time is short. Give, give liberally, give quickly, everybody.

A Condition Far Too Prevalent.

The R. v. Madison C. Peters, speaking to the congregation of the Bloomingda's Reformed church. New York, Sunday night, brought to light a deplorable condition among the New York regiments that have gone to the front. He declared that a large majority of the New York volunteers went south without a cent in their poctate, and that hundreds of them were

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

The soliciting committee appointed at the recent meeting of citizens, to raise funds for a big celebration on the Fourth of July, have been hard at work. They have been pretty well encouraged, as the following list shows. This list is a significant commentary on the public spirit, or lamentable lack of subtle of public spirit, on the part of certain of our business men.

But the few rebuffs the committee have received are even more significant. Some of our business men, who have large stores, do big business, and ike to call themselves prominent, and leading citizens, absolutely refused to a give a cent toward the celebration. such niggardliness should not be for-

For the procession, the merchants and business houses of El Faso must make that a success. We want floats of every kind, representing allegorical and patriotic scenes, great military and naval leaders, battleships, business as the Americans only produce such as the Americans only produce such machines as are wanted. Railroads as Developers. Manufacturers' Record, Baltimore.

At a recent conference of represent-1000 atives of the departments of industry 1000 and immigration and passenger de-1000 partments of the railroads in Tennespartments of the railroads in Tennessee a committee consisting of Col. J. B Killebrew, immigration agent of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railway; Col. Robert Gates, industrial agent of the Louisville & Nashville railway, and Mr. N. V. Ricbards, land and industrial agent of the Southern railway, was appointed. the Southern railway, was appointed to prepare and address to the people of the state, demonstrating the interest of the railroads in the resources and possibilities of Tennessee and inviting the people to a cordial and liberal cooperation with the companies in an effort to develop the mineral, forest, field, garden, and orchard wealth. The committee says:

The committee says:

It will surprise many to learn that the railroads of Tennessee are now expending annually between $30,000 and $40,000 to attract immigrants and capits to its borders. Some of this capital is being nvested in manufactories, mining, and lumbering, and a part in a more diversified agriculture. A few railroad farms have been established in order to demonstrate the wonderful powers of our sol and climate in the growth of vegetable products. These farms are conducted, not for profit, but in the interest of the people of the s ate, who may learn from their management, how to increase the quality and quantity of those products that may be grow, with profit. These farms also to int out what may not be grown profitably, thus teaching both positively and negatively lessors of the greatest benefit to our farmers. If such an object-lesson becomes the means of encouraging the growth frainable products on the line of the roads, it will prove a profitable investment, not only for the railroads that bear all the expense, but to the farmers of the whole state. Agents are also employed to visit other sections and induce the growers of high-priced products to settle in the state and engage in these new branches of agricultural development.

Soldiers Who Cry.

Yesterday I called at the Ninth Infantry camp, and Colonel Powell told the following in the course of conver-sation, and it struck me as a new note. This regiment came from Plattaburg Barracks, New York, and when the order came to go the colonel asked his captains to draw up small details out of the companies which should be left behind to guard and look after the property of the government at Platte-

The colonel drew these details up in line to instruct them in their duties, which he did at some length. He said he noticed tears running down the faces of some of the men, but it did not faces of some of the men, but it did not strike him seriously at the time. He dismissed the squad and left the building; but in a string behind him came the men crying little children. One old mustached and grizzled chap was bawling as though at his mother's funeral; he begged, he pleaded, he implored the colonel by all his gods not to leave him behind. Others did the same standing there crying, blubbersame, standing there crying, blubbering, and beseeching Colonel Powell not to make them stay behind. The old colonel was quite taken aback.

New York's Commerce Declining. The foreign commerce of the port of New York for the ten months of the current fiscal year shows a decline, below that of last year during the same period, of $15,234,137. During that same period the foreign commerce of the United States has increased over the corresponding period for last year to the extent of $36,466,703.

While the foreign commerce of the United States steadily increases in value, that of New York steadily devalue, that of New York steadily de-clines. There is no mistaking the fact of New York's steady decline in foreign commerce While during the ten months ending April 30, 1898, the increase in the nation's exports ex-ceeded the decrease in its imports to the value of about $36,000,000, in that same period, there has been an actual decline in the aggregate of New York's imports and exports of more than $15,-

Time was when the foreign com-merce of the port of New York was 70 per cent. of the nation's total. Until last year it had never dropped below 50 per cent. This year it will be only about 46 per cent. At this rate of decline in another ten years New York's proportion of the nation's foreign commerce will not exceed 25 per cent-one quarter—and by that time Boston will probably have equaled New York.

larper's Magazine. The Judge had never taken a Turk-ish bath, but he was not feeling his best that morning, and it suddenly occurred to him to test its vivifying effects, so eathusiastically descanted upon by his young friends. It seemed to the judge that the rubber was terribly rough, but fearing to expose his in-experience and subject himself to ridicule by objecting to the regular treatment, he patiently endured being punched, pummelled, slapped, spanked, whacked and poked until he could not stand the torture a moment longer. "Is—it—qui-ite—necessary—to—m-ake—me—b'a-ack—and—blue—all—ov ver?" panted the judge, as irregularly as the rubber dug his fists in more or less vigorously. "Never you mind; I'm fixin' you," responded the rubber, redoubling his assaults and grinning clearly showing how deeply impressed the railroads are with the vast and varied riches of Tennessee and with the necessity of developing them, should have a healthful effect, not only upon Tennessee, but upon other states of the a horrible suspicion dawning in his Tennessee, but upon other states of the south to which the arguments of the committee are applicable.
